Image: Nintendo Wii U Gamecube Wii U Download. . or use Nintendo GameCube and Wii Download Windows or MacintoshÂ .Q: Python decorator is not working I'm creating a decorator in Python. The function returns a string for a given command and command line arguments. This is supposed to be called when you use cmd.myfunc(args) This is the code of the decorator: from functools import wraps
def onetimecmd(func, *args, **kwargs):
def wrapped(self, *args, **kwargs):
try:
command, *args = args
except TypeError:
command, *args = args[0], args[1]
return func(self, command, *args, **kwargs)
wrapped.__doc__ =
func.__doc__
wrapped.__module__ = func.__module__ wrapped.__name__ = func.__name__
wrapped.__doc__ =
func.__doc__
return wrapped @onetimecmd
def myfunc(cmd, *args, **kwargs):
return "Result"
And this is how I call it:
import cmd
import myfunc
@cmd.command
def test():
print("Text")
print("Text")
test()
When I run the test() function, Python shows this error message: Traceback (most recent call last): File "C:/Users/Vasco/Documents/workspace/test_python/test.py", line 15, in test() File "C:/Users/Vasco/Documents/workspace/test_python/test.py", line 12, in test print("Text") NameError: name 'test' is not defined Why does it say it is not defined?
